

December 2019*Designer Fashion - UK

“The designer fashion market is experiencing major changes as the sector embraces the shift towards shopping more online and the higher visibility from social media. As Millennials drive sales of luxury fashion, they are putting pressure on designer brands to be more ethical, inclusive and diverse. They are also changing ...

November 2019*Consumers and the Economic Outlook - UK

“Brexit has been delayed again. The public faces a Christmas general election. And the economy narrowly avoided a recession in September. It is no wonder, then, that consumer confidence has taken a hit. However, financial well-being is holding up and the vast majority of people think they’ll be OK in ...

Summer Fashion (incl Swimwear)
- UK

“With nearly three quarters of all consumers purchasing fashion items for the summer season, the market presents opportunities for retailers. The category has undoubtedly been buoyed by the growth in the popularity of summer events such as holidays and music festivals, but with the unpredictable weather consumers have been slow ...
