The Impact of COVID-19 on Travel - US

“The travel industry is in a dire situation, and recovery will be a long time coming. Much of that recovery depends on the US government’s response to the dual threats of COVID-19 and the accompanying recession. In short, Americans won’t be traveling until they feel safe and they’re financially able ...

Consumers and the Economic Outlook: Incl Impact of COVID-19 - US

“The unpredictable pace of the spread of COVID-19 is worrying, but consumers have remained optimistic about their finances throughout this pandemic and the subsequent recession. Time will tell how deeply consumer finances will be affected, but right now, consumers are most definitely holding out hope for themselves, while their confidence ...
