

June 2017

Social Networking - Ireland

“Irish consumers are warier of fake news compared to 12 months ago. This indicates that they are becoming increasingly sceptical of content posted to social networks and they think these platforms need to do more to prevent fake news from spreading. Improving detection and removal processes will help social networks ...