Personal and Stakeholder Pensions - UK

After several years of solid growth the personal pension market, along with most of the financial services industry, has experienced a slowdown in 2008. Naturally, the current economic environment is a major contributing factor to the recent slowdown. Many people are focusing on more immediate issues such as paying down ...

Eye on intermediaries - Pensions and Retirement Income - UK

The combination of a rapidly greying UK population, considerable improvements in longevity and declining state and occupational pension provision, has made retirement planning more important than ever before. While past generations will have benefited from more generous pension arrangements, an increasing number of people are finding that they themselves are ...
