

August 2015

Energy and Sports Drinks - Canada

“The challenge for energy drink brands is altering negative perceptions of their authenticity, as well as their negative side effects. Naturally sourced ingredients in energy and sports drinks are important to consumers, as is providing validity to the benefits of these ingredients and documentation of their origins through multimedia channels ...